Summit Immigration CRM

Every enquiry answered in seconds, every lead owned, every case in one place. A summary of what you saw in the demo and how to get started.

Prepared October 2026

< 1 min	3 languages	1 record
first reply to every WhatsApp enquiry, day or night	English, Urdu and Roman Urdu, text and voice notes	from first message to final receipt

One workspace for sales, finance, processing and reception — each department signs in to its own view of the same records.

Why consultancies switch to Summit

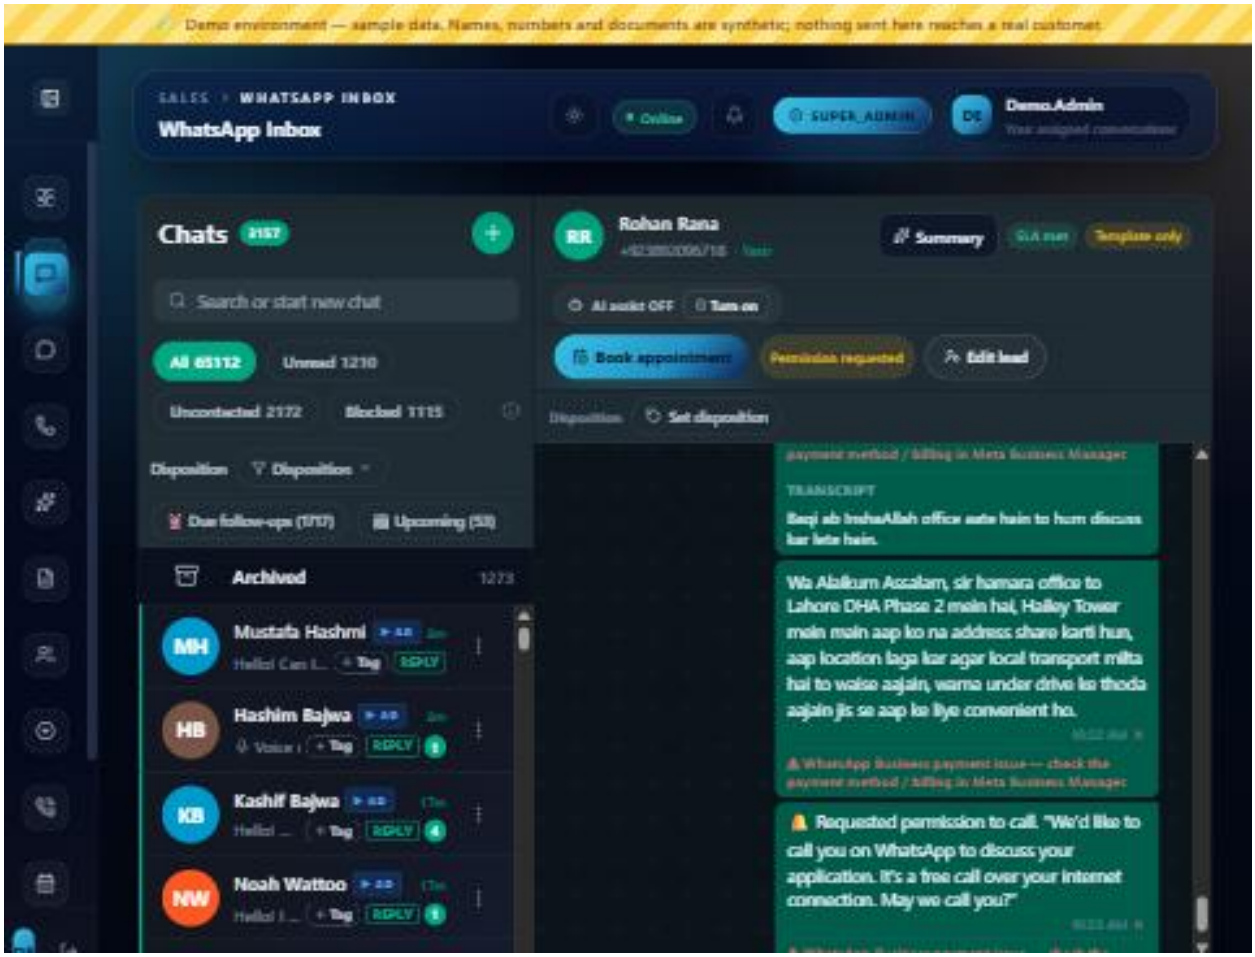

An immigration office lives on WhatsApp. Enquiries arrive on staff phones at all hours, the fast ones get answered, the rest go cold, and when a salesperson leaves, their conversations leave with them. Managers cannot see who replied, how fast, or why a lead was lost. Finance and processing keep their own files for the same client.

Summit puts the whole journey in one system:

- One shared WhatsApp inbox on your business number. Every message is saved, searchable and owned by the company, not a phone.
- An AI assistant that answers first. It replies within seconds in the customer's language, answers from facts you approve, books consultations into real availability, and hands over to a person the moment it should.
- Fair, measured distribution. New leads go round-robin to the agents who are online. Every reply is timed against the service level you set.
- One record per person. Lead, consultation, agreement, payment, receipt and case all hang off the same reference code, visible to every department with the right permission.
- Reports that arrive by themselves. Daily WhatsApp and call reports, per-agent performance, lead sources and conversion, delivered every morning.

What you saw in the demo

- The dashboard an owner sees at 9 am: new leads, conversations waiting, appointments, money received.
- The WhatsApp inbox: thousands of conversations with status, owner and outcome tags, filtered to unread and uncontacted in one click.
- A real conversation handled by the assistant at night: questions answered, a voice note transcribed, a consultation booked, the chat handed to a human.
- The lead record behind the chat: which ad it came from, who owns it, follow-ups, appointments, notes.
- The manager view: who is online, who replies on time, who converts — and the settings that decide who receives new leads.
- The agent view: a deliberately simple screen with only that person's conversations and today's follow-ups.

The shared inbox. Voice notes appear as transcripts; the assistant's replies are marked; a human can take over any chat with one click.

How the assistant behaves

- It answers only from the knowledge your team approves: programs, fees, documents, office hours. Nothing improvised.
- It never promises an outcome and never asks for passport numbers, card details or passwords.
- It books into real availability, so there is no double booking, and confirms in the customer's language.
- It hands over to a person when the customer asks, when it is unsure, or when the conversation becomes commercial — and your team sees the full history.
- Every reply it writes is visible and marked in the inbox, so managers can review its work.

Your data

- Your records live in your own cloud database. Access is by role: sales see their leads, finance sees finance, managers see everything.
- Every sensitive action — document views, payment verification, exports — is logged with who did it and when.
- The demo you saw runs on sample data: a real system's history with every name, number and document replaced by realistic substitutes.

Getting started

Step	What happens	What we need from you
1. Kick-off call	We agree the scope, the team and the launch date.	Who is in the WhatsApp rota, your working hours, your branches.
2. Connect your number	Your WhatsApp Business number is connected to Summit; your existing number can be moved.	Access to your Meta Business account (we guide you through it).
3. Teach the assistant	We load your programs, fees, documents and office details into the approved knowledge base.	Your current fee list and the facts you want customers to hear.
4. Import and go live	Existing leads are imported; the inbox and reports go live; your team is trained in one session.	A spreadsheet of existing leads (optional).

Typical time from kick-off to live is days, not months. The assistant learns from day one, and you can adjust its knowledge and tone at any time without technical help.

Try it yourself

Ask your Summit representative for a personal demo link. It signs you straight in at demo.summitautomates.com for a limited time, as an admin or as a sales agent, so you can explore the inbox, the lead records and the reports at your own pace. Anything you change in the demo is reset automatically.

Next steps

- A short follow-up call to answer your questions and confirm scope.
- A trial on your own WhatsApp number, with your own fee list in the assistant.
- A go-live date that suits your team.
